

Internet Computing Project

Fall 20220

Title of your Application Domain

Phase 1

Group members

Name	ID

1. Introduction

In this section, give a description of your application domain.

2. Project goals

In this section, describe the goals of your project and the functionalities that you intend to implement.

3. Database Design

In this section, describe your database design based on the information and the requirements you described in the previous sections.

3.1. Entity types and their attributes

3.2. Relationships and business rules

Type your application domain here

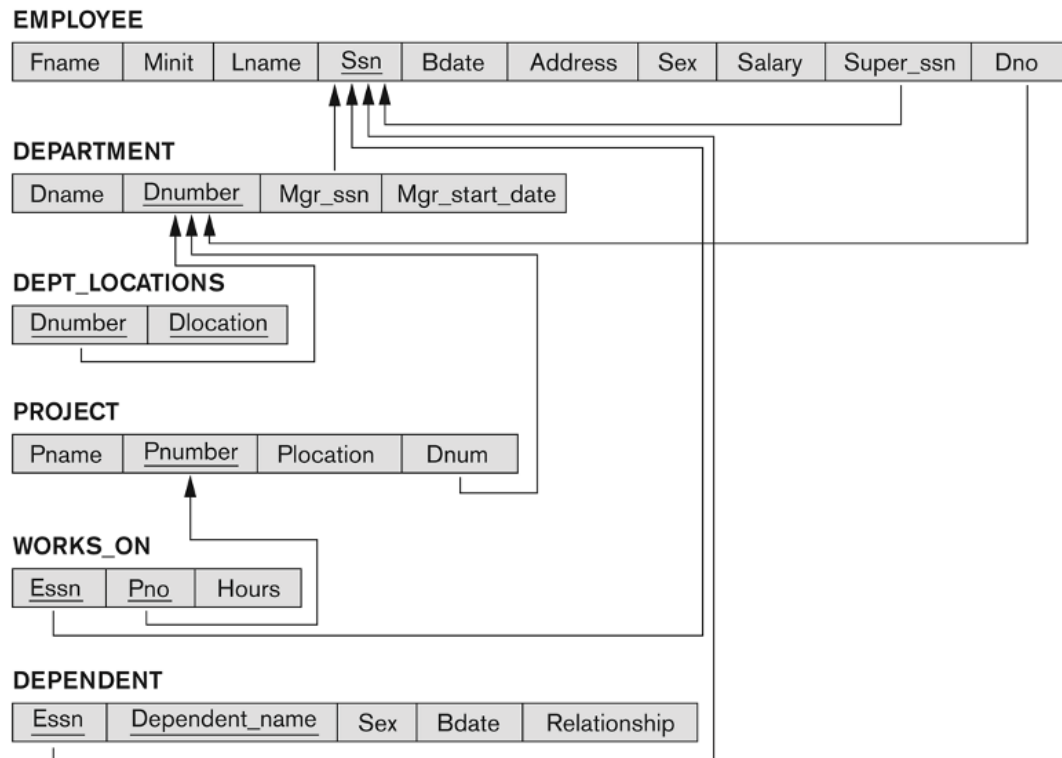

3.3. Entity Relationships Diagram

Based on the findings in previous subsections, draw the ERD/EER of your system.

3.3. Database schema

In this section, give the schema of your database using the rules (seen in database course) to map the ERD/EER to a schema.

Example:

4. Sketch of the forms and menus of the application

In this section give a sketch of the forms and menu of your web application.

5. References

List here the references from which you get the information regarding your application domain.